Oh Canada!

Polyas at the International Summit for Cooperatives

Berlin/ Quebec, 10.10.2016 - Polyas is travelling to the Far North. Two of our representatives will be attending the Canadian International Summit for Cooperatives to show off the benefits of online voting.

Polyas continues to grow internationally as we've now set our sights on the Anglo-American market. North America is a particularly interesting market for online elections. Indeed, we already have a growing client-base in Canada which we intend to develop even further into the future.

In order to enhance our relationship with North America, as well as gaining a better understanding of the needs of Canadian cooperatives, we are taking part in the International Summit for Cooperatives in Quebec from the 11th to the 13th of October. With over 300 participants, this summit is an ideal platform from which to continue our international growth.

We are looking forward to many interesting discussions with international cooperatives and gaining valuable new insights into the sector as a whole.

About Polyas:

Polyas is a start-up specializing in developing software for legally valid, secure online elections. More than 100 companies, churches, universities and political parties have already voted with us. We are highly active in Germany, Austria, Switzerland and Italy, and are growing rapidly in the UK, the US and Canada.
